

Are you ever too young for greatness?

1. Think about an advantage and a disadvantage of being each age.

EXAMPLE: 7 – Disadvantage: There are many things you are not allowed to do because your parents create the rules for you. Advantage: You can play a lot with your friends and have a lot of free time.

2. Read the definition in the box and say which statements (A–E) you think might be true about a prodigy. Give reasons.

- A. They miss out on their childhood.
- B. They never follow a conventional path.
- C. They can land any job they want.
- D. They can tackle challenging tasks much better than some adults.
- E. They always show maturity and behave wisely.

prodigy:
a person, typically a child,
with exceptional abilities or talents
that are considered beyond their age or experience

3. Think about the time when you were 14 and compare your life to Kairan's (the boy from the article) life.

4. Discuss the questions.

- Why do you think some companies, like SpaceX in this case, are willing to hire young individuals? Do you think it's the right thing to do or do you believe in a more conventional approach?
- Are there legal restrictions or regulations in place regarding the employment of young individuals in your country?
- Do you think high intelligence equals maturity? What is more important if one wants to land a job?
- What are the challenges of being exceptionally talented or achieving fame at a young age?
